the Chesapeake.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLIK, VA., Feb. 16.—The schooner
W. H. Dix, Captail Mathewson, twentynine days out from the Columbian Island, San Andres, which, ever since last Saturday, has been drifting about in the Chesapeake lee field, was towed to Norfolk this afternoon by the tug Joseph M.
Clark, which went after her yesterday.
The Dix bound for Baltimore with a cargo of coconnus, went ashore at Newport at the entrance to Mobjack Bay and was forced to go in close in order to avoid the floating lee. She got off afterwards and was drifting helplessly about.
Her master said this afternoon that he had head winds coming up and was thereby delayed. His schooner is not aleak and is not sarlously damaged. The Dix sailed from Baltimore November 7,
1904, for the Island of Grand Cayman, on the Cuban Coass; then proceeded to San Andres and is now on her way home.

Disastrous Explosions on Board British Submarine Boat at Queenstown. 1 ::

CREW WERE FILLING TANKS

Rescuers From Gunboat Hazard Met by Second Explosion. Many Injured.

(By.Associated Press.)

'QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 16.—Four men were killed and fourteen others injured by two explosions on board the British submarine boat "A-5," in the harbor. The killed included Bingliner Artificer Chaffe. Lieutenant H. H. Good, commander of the vessel, was blinded. His condition is critical. Lieutenant Skiner, an officer of the submarine boat, subsequently died of his injuries. Only one man of the entire crew oscaped uninjured.

The first explosion is believed to have occurred while the crew were engaged in filling the gasoline tanks preparatory to proceeding outside the harbor. The "A-5" enught fire after the first explosion. When this explosion occurred a number of the crew of the torpede sunboat Hazard volunteered to go to the rescue of the submarine boats crew, but hardly had they got on board the "A-5" when a second explosion tooks place and all the rescuers were more or less injured.

The submarine boat was afterwards docked and an official statement issued this evening says the vessel has not suffered much damage. An inquiry into the causes of the explosion will be held tomorrow.

Terrific Explosion.

Terrific Explosion.

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON Feb. 18.—The explosion, which was of the violence of a big gun and was heard ten miles away, shook the submarines convoy, the Hazard, from atem to stern, Dense volumes of smoke were seen immediately pouring from the only outlet of the hapless submarine. The rescuers report that it was only by superhuman efforts that they were sible too force their way through the stifling temes. They were repeatedly driven back, and when they finally reached the lower part of the foost they encountered a terrible spectacle. Of the wounded and dying crew, only one was able to speak coherently, and he was begging to be saved. The rescuers were forcing up the second manhole forward when the second explosion occurred, blowing one of them twenty feet upward. He fell in the water and was rescued. Others were slightly wounded.

solved by mutual consent, being succeeded by the firm of J. B. Mosby & Co., Mr. A. F. Cordes retiring. The business will be conducted without intermission by the new firm. Messrs, George Deutrich, Sr. and Eugene A. Dietrich, both formerly associated with the firm, will continue as members. Mr. Cordes, the retiring member of the firm, has not announced his plans.

Mr. J. B. Mosby stated last night that it was the purpose of the firm to incorporate as a joint stock company as soon as arrangements therefor can be completed without interruption of the business. This being the middle of the busy season, it may be a month or two before the organization of the company is perfected.

Mr. Mosby has been continuously connected with the dry goods trade of Richmond in both the wholesale and the retail lines since the war and has been prominently identified with the business interests of this city, and is widely known and esteemed. He is also a stockholder and director in the wildesnie dry goods house of the Wilkinson, Reed & Williams Company, incorporated, of this city. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

MEHERRIN. VA., Feb. 16. —A report reached this place yesterday that Mr. J. Y. Hardy, a young man, very promisently connected in this county, froze to death on route from Blackstone, a few days ago. The report goes that Mr. Hardy went to Elackstone a few days ago on business and on his return was moder the influence of liquor. Night overtook him and he storped overnight in an old house that was unoccupied and turned loose his horse that he was riding and went in. His horse stood by until the next day; when he continued his journey alone, and arriving at his horse his friends started in pursuit and followed the traces made by the horse to the old house and there found him dead. It was thought that he had been dead for several hours, as he was stiff and coid. Mr. Hardy was a very indistrious young man and had scores of friends in this section, where he has lived since his childhood lie was about thirty yours of age.

Petersburg Lodge of Elks last night voted a generous donation to the poor of the city. The gift will be added to the king's Daughiers' fund, which was started recently by Eureke Lodge, Knights of Pythlas.

The February term of the Hustings Court began this morning, but no important business was transacted. No juries were summoned for this term, as the one or two small criminal cases were continued until the March term.

Another cold wave has come upon the city and skating is general. This morning's temperatures were as low as six above zero.

A SPURIOUS HEIR.

Edwin J. Carter Disposed of Estate and Decamps.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

LEISBURG, VA., Feb. 16.—An indictment for obtaining money under faiso pretenses was found by the grand jury of this county on Wednesday against Edwin J. Carter, of Illinois. Carter several years ago applied for the estate of the late Travis Carter, a wealthy citizen of lower Loudoun, representing himself to be the sole helf. A large amount of personal estate was delivered to him, and as sole helf he fransferred several farms to Mr. Robert Costelle as purchaser. Later other heirs appeared, of whom Carter had knowledge, established their rights and relationship to Travis Carter.

After protracted litigation Mr. Costelle was compelled to refund to these parties their interest, which amounted to several fathy and carter formerly lived in Marcora, Ill., owned a large amount of property there and was editor of the Marcora Nows. His present whereabouts are unknown.

LAND TALKS FOR JUDGE W. H. MANN

Blackstone Editor Says Judge Will Make a Fine Run for Governor.

Mr. W. A. Land, of Blackstone, was in the city yesterday and spoke interestingly of the political situation in his section. He said:

"Thus far politics have been quiet. Some few are beguning to line up for the candidates for the different offices, but little active work has been done."

"What are you all going to do regarding Judge Main's candidacy for the gubernatorial bomination?" asked the reporter. "Woll, you know Nottoway county is the home of Judge Mann, and if our county has one characteristic more prominent than another it is its loyalty to its friends. Especially has this been apparent as to its home people who were candidates. I think this is also largely true as to that section."

"Do you mean to say that the other candidates for gubernatorial honors have no friends or supporters in that section, for they have, Judge Mann's friends are not claiming the earth. Both Measrs. Willard said Swanson will get some votes. You know any man who has had an active business and political career will make some enumies, especially if he has been active enough to make any friends."

"Have not he and his friends been very quiet recontly regarding his canvass?"

"They have been taking a little breathing spell, while his enemies have been so hard at work for him. All these attacks upon Judge Mann and the efforts made to read him out of the party and out of the canvass have only added to his strength. His friends feel that these people are fighting his battle for him, and are willing to left them continue in their good work."

"What part are the anti-saloon people going to take in this fight?"

"They have been the fight?"

Petroleum Used at Sea.

Liquid duel is now largely used by the Dutch steamers of the Royal Packet Company, plying between the different Islands of the Notherlands Indian Archipelago. It is residue from the petroleum wells in Notherlands India, the greater part being from the Asiatic Petroleum Company's wells in Borneo.

The total consumption or this liquid fuel by the Royal Packet Company's steamers was 11,700 tons and 16,500 tons for 1903 and 1803, respectively, with an estimated consumption for 1904 of 25,000 tons. The company has contracted for a supply for the year 1965 to 1907 with the Asiatic Petroleum Company, to the extent of 25,000 tons per year. The ton is calculated at about 325 gallons. The fuel sells at about 325 gallons. The fuel sells at nout 37,50 per ton, but it is understood no such, price is paid by the Royal Packet Company when contracting for large quantilies. At the present time there are seventeen of the company's steamers using liquid ruel, and it is found much more concening than coal, better for the boilers, cleaner in every way, and fewer mon are required to work the furnaces.
